ABSTRACT

A DSR system and method is disclosed. A DSR system comprising: a client to send connection requests, receive displayable content, and transmit speech feature data to a server; a gateway coupled between the client and the server to support data communication between the client and the server; and a server to receive the speech feature data, perform speech recognition on the speech feature data, and transmit displayable content to the client.